session of one of the church families.

In October of 1887, the church agreed to build a new church and it was not until 1891 that members decided on the present location as the site for the new building. As time passed, Rocks Church progressed and today is a modern brick church with a newly decorated sanctuary and an excellent educational building.

The bicentennial committee is composed of Mrs. Toby Inge, Mrs. Aulden Beach and Mrs. W. H. Elder. Friends and former members of the church are invited to attend the celebration on July 30th.

State Releases Survey Of Substandard Housing

A Survey of Substandard Housing in Virginia was recently released by the Division of State Planning and Community Affairs.

The purpose of the study is to examine indicators of substandard housing in the state as presented in the 1970 Census of Housing. The indicators are shown for total occupied units and Negro occupied units and are broken down by county, city, and planning district.

Defining substandard housing as units which are overcrowded or lack complete plumbing facilities, the study shows that 17.3 percent of the total occupied units in Virginia were substandard at the time of the 1970 Census. This compares somewhat unfavorably with the United States as a whole, in which 13.0 percent of the housing units were substandard. Using this same definition, the Negro occupied units in Virginia also showed a higher incidence of substandard housing (41.7 percent) than did the Negro occupied units for the nation (31.5 percent).

Five planning districts, Districts 5, 8, 15, 20 and 21, were found to have a lesser percentage of substandard housing than the state as a whole. These five contained major metropolitan areas of the state: Roanoke, Northern Virginia, Richmond, Newport News-Hampton, and Norfolk-Portsmouth - Virginia Beach. The smaller percentage of substandard units in these districts is probably due to the higher incomes generated, and the resulting greater incidence of suburban (single and multi-family) housing developments. By these standards relatively under-developed areas, such as the Southwest, the Southside, the Northern Neck and the Eastern Shore have a substantially greater percentage of substandard housing than the rest of the state. The percentages of substandard units for their planning districts tend to stay fairly close to the statewide average.

The Survey of Substandard Housing in Virginia is available without charge from the Division of State Planning and Community Affairs.

DANIEL RECEIVES LEGION MEDAL

In making the presentation, L. Eldon James, a Hampton attorney and past National Commander of the American Legion, cites Representative Daniel's long record of public service in the Congress and as a member of the General Assembly of Virginia for 10 years.

Daniel, the first Virginian to become National Commander of the American Legion, was elected to this office in 1956.

James said that, "Congressman Daniel's long and continued interest in the National Defense posture ably fitted him for service on the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee." Congressman Daniel serves on several subcommittees and most recently was Chairman of the Subcommittee on Recruiting and Retention of Military Personnel.

HOW TO HAVE A MISERABLE VACATION

Mark 6:31 "And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while; for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat."

The story of Jesus Christ inviting his disciples to share a vacation with him is most intriguing. They had been so busy in the work there was not enough time to eat. This sounds like contemporary American "hustle and bustle". But before the vacation started the Lord challenged his disciples to continue ministering to people even in this "desert place".

Jesus Christ's teaching, an example is always revelant. He has something to say about one of the Christians major problems, "How to take a vacation as a Christian". The whole spectrum of leisure time is a great concern to the committed Christian.

Your vacation can be a rewarding experience or it can be miserable. Let me give you several suggestions on how to have a "miserable vacation". Follow these simple rules and you can't miss.

1. Do what you want to do. (Leave God out of your plans)
2. Go where you want to go. (Not to Church!)
3. Live like you want to live. (Not for Christ!)
4. Read what you want to read. (Not the Bible!)
5. Talk about what you want to talk about (Don't witness!)
6. Spend your money for what you want to spend it for. (Don't leave your tithe with the Church!)

My friend if you follow these simple rules your vacation will amount to a big ZERO. Which way will it be for you this year?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

AT THE ROOTS

Lesson for July 30, 1972

Background Scripture: 1 John 4:13-19, Ephesians 3:14-21.
Devotional Reading: Philippians 3:7-16.

When I travel I am often amused at the difference it makes when on no one learns that I am a clergyman. For some people it is an obvious barrier. For others, it is sometimes a cue for insincerity. I become aware that they begin to tell me the sort of thing they think I want to hear. Are still others, it seems, I become an object of curiosity. There are some people, however, who seem genuinely relieved that they can speak with someone about matters of faith, someone who shares the same allegiance and commitment as they. It becomes apparent for they are hungry to talk to someone who shares their Christian faith.

By This We Know

Apart from glory collars and nuns' habits there are few signs to indicate who is and is not a Christian in their commitment, True, some people wear crosses around their necks and in their lapels, but like the old Sunday school attendence pins these seem to be fewer and fewer these days. It is hard to know when a person is a Christian.

In 1 John, however, we find that there is really a very good criteria -- one that can be used in identifying Christian discipleship: "By this we know that we abide in him and he in us, because he has given us his own Spirit" (4:13). There are no badges to wear, no secret handshakes and signs, no banners to carry, there is only love. Love is one criterion for identifying the person who "abides" in Christ.

Unfortunately, a person can call himself a Christian, belong to a church, and even wear a lapel cross, but this is no guarantee that he or she is truly a disciple. For Christianity is not a matter of outward signs and garments, but of an inner depth reality. If a person has not love, all the badges and banners in the world cannot make him a follower of Jesus Christ.

The Fullness And The Depth

In Ephesians, the writer calls for a faith that is more than external, He calls for a faith that has "breadth and length and height and depth" (3:18). His prayer is that the reader may "be filled with all the fullness of God" (3:19). Once again, however, the key to a depth dimension faith is love. The writer's prayer is that the reader may have power ("strengthened with might" - 3:16), faith (3:17), understanding ("power to comprehend" - 3:18), but all of "fullness" is "rooted and grounded in love" (3:17). Above all else, the Christian must know "the love of Christ which surpasses knowledge" (3:19).

When we meet someone who has this fullness, this depth dimension, it soon becomes apparent because deep inside at its roots there is Christian love that shines through everything.

Do you really save when you shop out of town?

Do so-called "big city discounts" really cover the cost of getting there?

Next time you consider an out-of-town shopping trip take a minute to estimate the cost of gasoline, oil, tire depreciation and parking.

Consider out-of-town service, misfit exchanges, no-fit returns and warranty repairs.

And don't forget that money spent out of town keeps traveling while money spent at home returns in community improvements.

Add it all up.

When you face the facts don't be afraid to change your mind and shop at home.
